Q4

I am a laidback person, so I can get along with almost anyone. However, I find that my closest friends are honest and caring.

Honesty is one of the most important qualities in a friend. People who lie usually do so to hide something or gain an advantage. This behavior is selfish because they are thinking only of themselves. When someone tells me the truth, even when it's difficult, I know they truly respect me.

In addition, I value friends who genuinely care about me. When they sense I'm feeling down and try to cheer me up. It shows they understand me on a deeper level. For example, when I am feeling depressed, my friends take me to my favorite places to help lift my spirits.

I do not appreciate people who lie or act selfishly. True friends will always be there for you when you need them the most.
